Design process and decisions

- Inspiration: A few portfolio websites – particularly liked moving boxes style for responsive design

The image displays two screenshots of João Ramos' portfolio website, illustrating the "moving boxes" design mentioned in the slide. Both screenshots feature a large orange header section with a portrait of João Ramos and a bio. Below this, a dark grey sidebar contains text about product design, and the main content area shows a grid of cards.

- Name: JOÃO RAMOS
- Text: Product designer who makes tasks easier for people, through empathy and thoughtful design

Text Below Header (Left Screenshot):

I've been designing and coding web sites and apps for the past seven years, for start-ups with self-service and enterprise products. It has been a blast! I'm now doing product design for the authoring experience at Contentful. I'm still learning every single day.

Product design as an holistic practice

Moodboard

- Initially started with a broader colour palette...

Moodboard (cont)

- But it made my site look a little too busy:

If it worked for kikki.k...

Similar color palette will work for me!

Started with these wireframes...

But it didn't quite fit some content right...

So I changed some of it!

ABOUT

Hey there! I'm an aspiring full-stack developer currently learning all things HTML, CSS, Ruby and JavaScript.
Check out some of my work here!

Aside from learning web development, I also enjoy going walking, spending time with friends and family, going to the gym and playing piano.

EDUCATION

I'm currently learning web development full time at Coder Academy!

Previously I completed combined Bachelor of International Studies and Bachelor of Laws degrees at the University of Sydney.

WORK HISTORY

Before learning web development, I worked in HR specialising in Employee Relations and using my employment law knowledge to provide strategic advice and support to staff and business stakeholders nationally for a range of people issues. I worked for the following companies:

 Jul 2017 - Aug 2018  Nov 2013 - Jul 2017  Aug 2010 - Oct 2013

Challenges

- Getting my head around Flexbox (initially!)
- Making the layout work for 3 breakpoints
- Deciding how much info to include and what to leave out.

Favourite Parts

- Getting the text overlaid on the hero image properly
- Getting the nav bar to be functional
- Making the website responsive.
